

Graduate Programme

Intake: September, 2015
Duration: 12 months
Hours: Full time
Location: 50 Featherstone Street, EC1Y 8RT, Central London
Deadline: Friday 5th December, 2014

At YouGov we are proud of our diverse, fearless and entrepreneurial nature.

We don't just ask the questions – we are far more nosy than that! We want the deeper insights, we want to know what people are thinking and doing, all over the world, all of the time – how do they think? What is motivating them? What are the stimulants? Where is the energy?

This is the mission that drives our business - we want to know 'What the World Thinks'.

Overall Objective

The YouGov Graduate programme provides exceptional graduates with an opportunity to experience work and life at YouGov, offering a first-hand experience of our business and culture. Successful candidates will be given the opportunity to rotate around our Quantitative and Qualitative research teams and within the Operations department, as well as spending time in the Sales team, and other various parts of the business. Not only will this give the successful candidates a thorough understanding of how research works, but it will also enable the successful graduate to get a thorough understanding of how the business works.
