WMATA Arrest Support

Recently, some have proposed changing the law to allow police officers to arrest WMATA riders they suspect of misconduct if the rider refuses to provide personal information to them, such as their name or home address. And even if it isn't exactly right, which of the following is closer to your view?

Body Camera Review

Currently, on-duty police officers here in DC are prohibited from reviewing some body camera footage after conducting a police stop, executing a warrant, or similar kinds of police work, to prevent reviewing such footage from interfering with their own personal recollection of events. Lately, some on the DC City Council have proposed reversing the current law to allow officers to review body camera footage in these circumstances. Generally speaking, even if it isn't exactly right, which of the following is closer to your view?

Vehicular Pursuits Support

Currently, it is against the law here in Washington DC for the police to engage in a pursuit against someone in a vehicle if doing so could endanger or kill the suspect. Would you [support or oppose] changing the law to allow the police to conduct vehicular pursuits against people, even if doing so could put the suspect at risk of harm?

Mandatory Minimums - B

Here in DC, the maximum possible length of a sentence someone can serve for a crime here in Washington is determined in laws set by the DC City Council. In each individual case, a judge and jury decide whether a person is guilty or not guilty and, if found guilty, determines their individual sentence length. Now, some on the DC city council are proposing new mandatory minimums, which would require anyone sentenced of a crime to receive at least a certain fine or prison sentence, regardless of whether the judge or jury believed the circumstances of the crime called for a different sentence. Generally speaking, when it comes to sentencing someone convicted of a crime, who should decide the minimum length of the sentence the person receives?

Felony Theft Threshold

In criminal sentencing, the difference between classifying theft as a misdemeanor vs felony is based on the dollar amount of the item(s) and has a significant impact on the severity of the sentence. The threshold between the two is chosen by lawmakers, and left unchanged until the legislature takes up the issue again. Would you [support or oppose] a policy adjusting this threshold for inflation, so that it increases or decreases similarly to prices and other economic indicators?

Legislation Proven Ineffective

Now, imagine the Washington, DC City Council was working on a new piece of legislation designed to reduce crime and improve public safety. Generally speaking, would you be [more or less] supportive of that legislation if you learned the Council included some ideas in the legislation that have been shown to be ineffective at reducing crime or improving public safety?

Racial Equity Statement

Next, consider the following statement from the Washington DC City Council Office of Racial Equity concerning the policies discussed in this survey. That statement reads, Several of the bill's provisions aimed at increasing public safety are not substantiated by evidence-based research. Further, research shows that several of these provisions are especially harmful to Black residents who are involved, or likely to be involved, with the criminal legal system. As a result, several of the bill's provisions will (or will likely) exacerbate racial inequity in the District. Generally speaking, does this statement make you [more supportive, less supportive,] or have no impact on your support for the policies discussed in this survey?

Campaign Zero District of Columbia - February 2024
Online sample of 326 voters fielded from February 13 to February 26, 2024.
Margin of error: +/-6%.

This survey is based on 326 interviews conducted by YouGov on the internet of registered voters in Washington DC. The sample was weighted according to gender, age, race/ethnicity, education, and U.S. Census region based on voter registration lists, the U.S. Census American Community Survey, and the U.S. Census Current Population Survey, as well as 2020 Presidential vote. Respondents were selected from YouGov to be representative of registered voters in Washington DC. The weights range from 0.25 to 2.9 with a mean of 1 and a standard deviation of 0.48.

The margin of error (a 95% confidence interval) for a sample percentage  $p$  based upon the subsetted sample is approximately 6%. It is calculated using the formula:

$$\hat{p} \pm 100 \times \sqrt{\frac{1 + CV^2}{n}}$$

where  $CV$  is the coefficient of variation of the sample weights and  $n$  is the sample size used to compute the proportion. This is a measure of sampling error (the average of all estimates obtained using the same sample selection and weighting procedures repeatedly). The sample estimate should differ from its expected value by less than margin of error in 95 percent of all samples. It does not reflect non-sampling errors, including potential selection bias in panel participation or in response to a particular survey.
