A proposed new law would allow terminally ill adults the option of legally seeking assistance to end their lives.

This would mean being provided with life-ending medication, to take themselves, if two doctors were satisfied they met all of the safeguards. They would need to be of sound mind, be terminally ill and have 6 months or less to live, and a High Court judge would have to be satisfied with their decision.

Whether or not you agree with assisted dying, do you think Government should or should not allocate parliamentary time for a debate on changing the law on assisted dying before the next general election?
