Since 2010 the government has had a "triple lock" policy on the state pension, promising to increase the state pension every year by inflation, earnings or 2.5%, whichever is the highest.

The Conservative Party have announced they plan to change this to a "double lock" policy, removing the requirement to increase state pensions by 2.5%.

The Conservative Party have announced they plan to make changes to social care in England. Currently, anyone with assets over £23,250, not including the value of their home, are required to pay for social care. Under the new policy, those with assets over £100,000, including the value of their home, will have to pay for social care.

Additionally, those receiving social care will have the option of deferring their social care payments until after they die.

Generally speaking, do you support or oppose these changes?

Some people have accused Jeremy Corbyn of having been sympathetic towards the IRA in the past and having been too friendly towards groups involved in terrorism. Jeremy Corbyn has said that violence on all sides was wrong, and that he spoke to figures involved with the IRA because he wanted to open a dialogue and find a peaceful solution.

From what you have seen or heard, do you think the criticism of Jeremy Corbyn over this is fair or unfair?
