For the following question, by harm we mean both physical and emotional harm.

How much harm, if any, do you think the man's actions caused his ex-girlfriend?

Now please imagine that the ex-girlfriend had started dating one of the man's friends after they split up, which is what made him want to circulate the photos.

A woman sent some naked photos of herself to her boyfriend. After they split up, the ex-girlfriend starts dating one of the man's friends, and in reaction he posts the naked photo of her in an online forum, where it is circulated further.

Now please imagine that instead, the wife was criticising the husband...

Imagine a married couple who both work and contribute to household tasks equally. The wife often tells her husband that his contributions are not good enough and that he is not capable of doing it correctly.

Now please imagine that the wife had previously cheated on the man.

A wife cheated on her husband. Time has passed and she now decides to sign up for a gym membership, when she tells her husband he tells her she does not need to go to the gym because he thinks she is already perfect, and he is concerned that she will attract a lot of male attention in the gym. As a compromise he agrees that she can go to the gym if he can check that her gym outfits are not too revealing before each session.
