For the following questions, please think about drug use more generally, rather than drug dependence. Methadone is a drug prescribed to those with a heroin addiction. Depending on the needs of the individual, the dose can be slowly reduced over time, so patients are able to give up heroin without experiencing withdrawal symptoms...

On a scale of 1 to 10, where 1 is "Very acceptable" and 10 is "Not at all acceptable", how acceptable, if at all, do you consider the following type of drug use to be?
