

YOUGOV / SUNDAY TIMES SURVEY

Sample: 567 members of the Labour Party
 Fieldwork: June 1-3, 2006

As you know, John Prescott was elected deputy leader of the Labour Party in 1994, and appointed Deputy Prime minister in 1997. The next two questions concern these two positions.

First, when do you think he should resign as Deputy Prime Minister?

	%
Immediately	25
When Tony Blair resigns as Prime Minister	56
He should stay on longer than Mr Blair	9
Not sure	9

And when do you think Mr Prescott should resign as Labour's deputy leader?

Immediately	21
When Tony Blair resigns as party leader	55
He should stay on longer than Mr Blair	14
Not sure	10